REPUBLICAN WOMEN PLAN SURVEY FOR GETTING OUT VOTE

Plans Are Laid at Meeting for Work Previous to and on November 4.

STATE DELEGATE NAMED

An enthusiastic meeting of the Connellsville Council of Republican Women was held last night in Elks Hall with Mrs. T. R. Francis, the chairman in charge. It was the regular meeting of the council and there were a number of staunch Republican women in attendance. The presidential election, to close at hand, Tuesday, November 4, plans were made by the council for the work to be carried on previous to and on the day of the election. Another survey of the field will be made and the women will work toward "getting out the vote" for President Coolidge. Mrs. Francis, chairman, was elected delegate to the annual state meeting of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women to be held November 10, 11 and 12, in the Penn. Hotel, Harrisburg. Reports of the Republican rally, attended by approximately 1,000 persons, held recently at the Orpheum Theatre, and a visit of the Junior Republican Girls' Ukulele Club to a big Republican demonstration at Meyersdale, were given by Mrs. Francis. The girls made such a hit at this rally that they have received quite a number of invitations to similar meetings at out of town points. They have accepted an invitation to go to Somerset to attend a big rally to be held Saturday night by the Republican organization of that county. Accompanied by their chaperon they will leave here Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. The meeting last night opened with "America," led by Mrs. William Rogers, who also sang several G. O. P. songs during the evening. Mrs. T. R. Francis was the accompanist. At the close of the meeting Coolidge Dawes thimbles were given as souvenirs.

Bomb Damages Home
Of Mayor in Niles;
Make Investigation

NILES, O., Oct. 22.—Police and Trumbull county officers are searching for the man who bombed the home of Mayor Harvey Kistler here early today. The dwelling was damaged to the extent of $1,000. Mayor and Mrs. Kistler were sleeping in an upstairs room but were not injured. The bombing followed a long conference called by the mayor with Klan and anti-Klan representatives in an effort to prevent threatened trouble if members of the Klan planned to Niles Saturday. No settlement was reached at the meeting.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 22.—A corps of special investigators was ordered to Niles by Governor Doherty today following the bombing of the mayor's home there and reports that rioting between Klan and anti-Klan is imminent. Mayor Kistler granted the Klan permission to stage a masked parade on the streets of Niles next Saturday and refused a similar request from the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, an anti-Klan organization.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 22.—Orders forbidding Klansmen to wear masks in the proposed demonstration at Niles next Saturday afternoon were issued here today by Clyde W. Osborn, grand dragon of the Klan in Ohio.

The president of the association, Ira C. Sutton, is in Richmond, Ind., attending a funeral of an immediate member of the family. Owen R. Brownfield, of Fairbault, vice-president, presided. Devotional exercises were led by George L. Moore, president emeritus of the association, and a school director for half a century at Brownsville. Mr. Brownfield praised the few present and severely scolded those who were absent. He said by an act of assembly the directors of each county were called upon to meet two days each year in annual convention. They are paid $4 per day and mileage at the rate of four cents a mile for their attendance. During the morning a few additional members dropped in. The enrollment is the lightest with which the association ever started one of its sessions.

"Looney" Gas
Causes Death
Of Fourth Man

By United Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—William Kresge died in a straight-jacket today at Reconstruction Hospital, bringing the list of "looney gas" victims in the Bayway plant of the Standard Oil Company to four.

Herbert Fuson, one of the 19 other victims of the strange gas, is confined in a straight-jacket and physicians do not expect him to live. Six of the men are reported to be in a serious condition. Standard Oil Company officials informed Prosecutor David of Union County, New Jersey, who is investigating conditions at the plant, that the manufacture of ethyl gas, fumes of which killed and drove insane workers in the plant, has been going on for only six weeks. David said he had information the company had been manufacturing the gas for more than a year.

"I am told it has been sold in large quantities in the Middle West," David said. "So far as I have been able to learn there have been none sickened by it except those employed in its manufacture."

BRITISH VOTERS
AT POLLS TODAY;
MACDONALD ILL

Twenty-Two Million Will Register Approval or Disapproval of Labor.

ARE 1,319 CANDIDATES

By United Press.
LONDON, Oct. 22.—Twenty-two million British voters went to the polls today to register their approval or disapproval of Ramsay MacDonald's Labor government. Also millions of those voting were women. Polling booths opened throughout England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland at 8 A. M. and the result of the bitter election campaign the country has seen will not be known until tomorrow.

Labor leaders, however, admitted they had little hope of obtaining a majority of the 615 parliamentary seats. Nearly everyone conceded the Conservatives had considerable gains which will put them into office after the MacDonald government resigns. There are 1,319 candidates contesting 638 seats. The remaining 32 candidates automatically elected their candidates on nomination day as they were unopposed.

The 11-day campaign came to an end with political passion whipped to white heat by bitter party accusations and recriminations, the storm center being the "red letter," the document attributed to Gregory Viner, which contained subversive suggestions to British communists.

Minister MacDonald wound up his campaign week from fatigue and insomnia, uncertain to the end concerning the letter's authenticity but expressing the view the government had acted wisely and promptly in the matter.

The celebration was held by the community which contributed to a fund collected by a committee of forty. Cash and "mercantile" prizes were awarded for the costumes, floats and other things. The judges were Mrs. J. L. Smith of Uniontown, Dr. Harry J. Bell of Dawson and D. L. Carson of Star Junction.

FIRST OBSERVANCE OF "BETTER SPEECH"
WEEK IN D. T. H. S.

The observance of "Better Speech" week at the Dunbar Township High School is under way. For the first time in the history of the school, the students took full charge of the entire chapel exercises yesterday morning.

Allan List, '26, made the announcements and introduced the speakers. Miss Anna Donnie, '26, conducted the devotional services. Miss Elizabeth Reilly, '26, led the singing and Miss Madelyn Meyers, '26, was pianist. Donald Shandor, senior, read a humorous "joke" story entitled, "The Origin of Slang." A dialogue, "Heard on the Street Car," illustrating the prevalence of slang in a humorous way, was presented by Misses Pauline Arnold and Catherine Cameron, both seniors. Two one-minute talks were given by Miss Elizabeth Miller, who spoke, "Why We Observe Better Speech Week," and Audrey Hamilton on "Is Slang Your Master?" Both are juniors.

Superintendent R. K. Smith of the township schools concluded the program with a talk. He congratulated the students on the excellent manner in which they had conducted the exercises. He said 2,800 pupils in the elementary schools of the township are also waging war this week against grammatical errors. He declared the campaign for better speech must be continued throughout the year, if this week's work is to be a real success.

By United Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—In a speech delivered to the Union League Club at luncheon here today Attorney General Stone declared "that dishonesty and corruption, wherever there is specific information," was being prosecuted. He said the civil and criminal actions now going on would be proceeded with but he declared that any party "have a monopoly on honesty."

DEMOCRATS OF
RHODE ISLAND
LIKE NEIGHBORS

Of Connecticut—They Cannot Stand the Bryan End of National Ticket.

DON'T MENTION HIS NAME

Are Unwilling to Take Chance of His Becoming President Through Election Being Thrown Into Congress—Interesting Fight for U. S. Senator.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright 1924 by The Daily Courier.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 22.—This is one of the states with which the Democrats have been in hopes they would break the solid Republican strength of the East. Here flourished the Al Smith sentiment and a militant Democracy. If the New York governor had been nominated, it would have been a close race. As it is, Rhode Island can be regarded as safe for Coolidge, though perhaps by a smaller ratio than four years ago.

Industrial conditions have not been all that might be desired, yet Coolidge is ahead. Why? Because the affected voters have a place other than the Democratic party through which to utter their protests. The third party vote in this state will be considerable and most of it will come from the ranks of the Democrats. The Klan has made its appearance here but both Republican and Democratic state conventions have adopted strong planks in denunciation of that order.

The state of Rhode Island, however, is far more interested in its senatorial fight than anything else. Jesse H. Metcalf, a member of one of the oldest families in the state, which owns textile properties as well as a powerful morning and afternoon newspaper in Providence, is making the race for the Republican ticket while Governor Flynn is the Democratic nominee for the senate to succeed the late Senator Colt. The Democrats have been holding plenty of rallies and are well organized. Not only have they been anxious to win the senatorship but they have sought to retain control of the state offices. The indictment of the Republican state chairman for alleged complicity in the passing of members of the legislature, coupled with the general warfare that has ensued since that event, made the Democrats feel that they had a real chance this year. But they came back from the Madison Square Garden convention more or less discouraged.

John W. Davis is being given the organization support but he is not winning the same enthusiasm that the other candidates on the state and the senatorial ticket seem to be getting. Davis probably will run behind them, although La Follette will be third in Rhode Island.

The Democrats of Irish extraction are divided here, as in Connecticut with many of them alienated on account of Davis' stand in favor of the League of Nations and others arguing that anyone who can be popular at the court of St. James cannot be sympathetic with the Irish. The organization leaders of course, are not always in a position to sweep aside such notions, however ill-founded they may be.

But the cold fact is that Rhode Island Democrats had another idol in their minds for 1924 and when he was not nominated they felt unhappy over the situation. Few of the Democratic candidates ever mention the name of Davis or the national ticket in their speeches except occasionally, and then in a casual way. They almost never refer to Charles W. Bryan. This is territory where the nomination of Bryan did as much as any one thing to drive the conservative Democrats into the arms of Coolidge. Republicanism, the strategists of the Republican campaign, allied by a friendly press have spread the idea that the election might get tied up in the hands of Representatives and that Bryan might be the choice for president. To avoid such a contingency, large numbers of Democrats are deserting their party this time.

The Republican managers have made a good job of winning the electorate in these parts and they not only have retained the Republican vote but acquired much of the Democratic conservative strength. The vote for Coolidge this year will be a true index of the power of the conservatives for they have drawn from all sides to the one standard of "things as they are."

Russian Exiles Lose "Home" in Paris Embassy

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The palatial old Imperial Russian embassy was a scene of consternation today as former Ambassador Maklakoff, who has been occupying the building as head of an organization of thousands of exiled aristocrats prepared to leave.

One of the first effects of recognition of Russia by France is that the magnificent embassy must be handed over to the French government to be prepared for a soviet envoy.

Many Russian aristocrats who have found refuge in Paris have become alarmed and worse came to the embassy domain of Maklakoff what is to happen to them.

The ex-ambassador does not desire to deal with the soviet government and so is leaving the embassy, to France, and seeking a new location at which he can continue to represent the exiles.

Holiday Boxes.

One Mother Says:

I have, on a high closet shelf, a series of holiday boxes which simplify the problem of decorations appropriate to the ever-recurring festive occasions throughout the season.

On box is marked "Easter" and is stocked with bunnies, painted eggshells, cards, etc. Another is "Fourth of July and Washington's Birthday," with tiny flags, bunting, and other such articles. Then there are "Valentine's Day," "Halloween," and, crowning the year, "Christmas."

These collections are added to from year to year, so that we always have on hand a large supply of decorations for the holidays.

Every Male Member In Brotherhood Is Aim of Lutherans

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Strenuous efforts are being made by the Lutheran Church in America to bring every man who is a member of that church into the Lutheran Brotherhood—its laymen's organization.

Up to the present time the church has enrolled 50,000 of its men in more than 1,100 local organizations and is conducting a constant drive to induce every layman in the church to join the brotherhood.

The results of this campaign were announced to the United Lutheran Church in America at its biennial convention here today by its Committee on the Lutheran Brotherhood. It was pointed out by the committee that the laymen so organized impart to the church work business experience and financial knowledge needed to put it upon a sound financial basis of efficiency.

In numerous instances the Lutheran Brotherhood has put over campaigns for raising funds for Lutheran institutions, which might otherwise have languished. To enable laymen to do this work, the committee advocates continuance of the dues system despite the fact that it has been criticized in some quarters.

Keeping Millions Free From Colds and La Grippe

W. H. HILL'S LIFE WORK

Colds cause more illness than any other human ailment. Realizing this 50 years ago, W. H. Hill determined to develop a quick-acting, scientifically correct cold and la grippe remedy.

Years of research brought success. Mr. Hill discovered a most remarkable formula. He backed it with courage, faith, integrity and a name that meant "satisfaction or money back."

Today more than 4,000,000 families—one-fifth of America's population—use and recommend Hill's Cascade Bromide Quinine.

Lack of Finances Prevents Luther League Expansion

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—With a record of "gratifying progress and efficiency, and the best organization and condition in its history," the Luther League of the United Lutheran Church came before the convention here with a vigorous request for more adequate financial support.

No large church body in America, says the report of the Committee on Associations of Young People, gives this branch of church work such meagre assistance. The league has a carefully arranged program and "it is surprising to see what has been done under tremendous handicaps. There are more and better results in wholesome, unselfish service. Christian lives and a efficient church workers coming from our young people's organizations than possibly through any other organization in the church."

The report continues: "By arrangement with college presidents, students are to be enlisted by the Luther League for definite service in young people's work. Seminary presidents have invited the cooperation of the league to bring before their students training for the ministry, successful methods of work among young people."

JUDGE TREXLER MAKES A RECORD

Re-election of Candidate to Superior Bench Is Assured.

BACKED BY PUBLIC OPINION

Bench and Bar Pleased With the Splendid Reaction to his Candidacy.
His Great Service to the State and to the Courts—His Distinguished Ability and Judicial Integrity Applauded—His Vast Interest in Civic and Other Duties Working For Betterment of the People.

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.—The courts are so much in the public mind that it is refreshing to see the universal reaction throughout the state of Pennsylvania to the candidacy of Judge Frank M. Trexler for re-election to the position of Superior Court Judge.
Allentown was the birthplace of this eminent jurist, where he first saw the light of day January 9, 1851, and Allentown is still honored as his home.
Coming from old Pennsylvania stock young Trexler, after graduating from the Allentown High School, entered Middleburg College, from which he was graduated with honors in 1870
at the age of 19 years.

JUDGE FRANK M. TREXLER,
Excellent Work on Bench Earned Him Unanimous Re-election For Superior Court.

Embracing the law as a profession
Judge Trexler was admitted to the bar of Lehigh county April 10, 1882, and immediately became known for his knowledge of the law as well as for his close attention to the interests of his clients. He was elected to the position of city solicitor in 1885 and served the city of Allentown in that capacity for 11 years with honor to himself and credit to the city.
He afterwards served as an associate counsel for the city.

Judge of Lehigh County.
Governor Stone appointed Judge
Trexler to the post of president judge of Lehigh county December 20, 1902, and in the following year he was elected to the office for a term of ten years by a very handsome majority.
During those years Judge Trexler was unflinching in his devotion to his judicial duties and made many notable decisions.

Governor Trexler found in Judge
Trexler the proper man to succeed
Governor Beaver as judge of the Supreme court, when the latter died, February 6, 1914, and the people of the State of Pennsylvania endorsed his nomination by electing him Judge Trexler to the judgeship for ten years at the following fall election by a very large majority.

There are very few things in my life which would seem to deserve much attention, was the way Judge Trexler dismissed the reporter's request for some facts about himself.
This modesty is characteristic of the man just as his ability as a jurist is characteristic of his conduct of his judicial position. His recognition for another ten years to the Superior bench has met with the universal approval of the bar and the public because his record has been written in faithfulness as well as in ability.

Among the things the reporter was able to glean about Judge Trexler was that he has served the Young Men's Christian Association of Allentown for 34 years as its president and has been largely responsible for its great growth and influence for good in the community. Everything for the benefit of his native city has always found a warm friend and willing worker in this just and able judge and his life has always been one of service.

Service to Welfare Bodies.
Judge Trexler gave many years to the Pennsylvania Juvenile Court and Probation Association, which he served in the office of president. He has very decided opinions on all matters of the character coming under the influence of this association and has helped it to develop into a vital and important agency in the administration of justice.
Judge Trexler was an organizer of the Pennsylvania Conservation Society, is an officer of the Lehigh Valley Child Saving Conference and is associated with a number of other welfare organizations of a similar character. His alma mater, Middleburg College, conferred the degree of LL.D. on him in 1910.

The father of a family of five children, the Judge is very happy in his Josephine H. Schelling in 1889.

The people of Pennsylvania will give Judge Trexler a record vote on election day November 4, not only because of his great ability as a jurist and his splendid integrity but also as a lesson to the elements of discontent that this state believes in the integrity of the courts, in their place in our government and in the perpetuation of the constitutional principles that are the mainstay of our civilization
and our great progress.

CANDIDACY HAS GREAT IMPETUS

General Edward Martin Nominated For Auditor General.

VETERANS APPLAUD FITNESS

Enlisted For Service in Spanish American War When Only 19 Years Old.
Led 110th Infantry During Hardest
Fighting in France—Is Banker, Lawyer, Business Man and Was Born and Reared on Farm—Is in Prime of Life and Peculiarly Fitted
For the Job.

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.—When the Republicans of Pennsylvania made the choice of General Edward Martin for Auditor General they picked a man who has had wide experience in financial matters as well as being a veteran of two wars and a lawyer of outstanding ability. In his native county of Greene and his home town, Washington, he is assured the greatest majority ever given to a candidate for any office when the votes are counted,
Tuesday, November 4.

The people with whom a man has lived and worked throughout his life are after all the best and done the best judges of his fitness for office and the unanimous endorsement General Martin has received from his home town, as well as from the town with whom he served in the Spanish American and the World War, places his candidacy before the voters of Pennsylvania as one deserving the utmost consideration without regard to party preference.

Born in Washington township,
Greene county, September 14, 1879,
General Martin attended the public school of his district, after which he entered Waynesburg college, from which he was graduated in the class of 1901.

Enlisted at 19 Years Old.

Enlisting in Company K, 10th Pennsylvania Volunteers, May 11, 1898,
when he was only a 19-year-old boy,
he saw service in the Spanish American War in the Philippines. On his discharge from the federal service he enlisted in Company K, 10th Pennsylvania Infantry, and passed through all the grades to the rank of brigadier general, being at present commander of the 50th Infantry Brigade.

On his admission to the bar in 1900
General Martin began the practice of law in Waynesburg and handled much very important litigation during the succeeding sixteen years, until 1921, when he was called to the position of trust officer of the Citizens National Bank of Washington, one of the most important financial institutions in the western portion of the State outside of Pittsburgh. He retains this position in his home town and his financial experience in it has helped to mould his career towards becoming one of the greatest Auditor Generals this state has ever honored with this very important office.

GENERAL EDWARD MARTIN,
Distinguished Veteran of World War Named by Republicans For Auditor General.

Before the World War activities of the United States General Martin saw active military service along the Mexican border as a major in Gen. Parahing's command. When the United States entered the war he again donned his uniform, was promoted to a lieutenant colonel and commanded the gallant 110th Infantry during the greater part of the hard fighting in France.

Get Distinguished Service Cross.
The record of the general was written on many battlefields and the United States government honored him with the distinguished Service Cross with oak leaf cluster for extraordinary heroism in action, as a result. To make a detailed statement of his military accomplishments is one of the things this modest gentleman refuses to do, but his leadership and fighting qualities are written in the hearts of the men who served under him and this is ample reward to his way of thinking.

His Personal Qualifications.
Public office will be a public trust to General Martin because his life as a citizen bears out his ideas of service. Any movement for the betterment of the people of Pennsylvania,
for his county and for his home town
has always had the backing of General Martin, and he is now making the people of the state to elect him to the high office of Auditor General, a position in which it will be his duty and privilege to conserve the funds of the Commonwealth.

General Martin is a member of the Masonic Order, and its affiliated bodies, is a prominent Elk and a member of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, as well as many social clubs. There is no office in the gift of the people of Pennsylvania as important to their economic interests as that of Auditor General, and there is no man in the state who is better fitted to fill it than Edward Martin—loyal, brave, and true and tried official of one of the state's important financial institutions.

CHRYSLER

Why The Country
Is Chrysler-Wild Today

It is a revolution to sit in a Chrysler and look up at other cars you pass.
The contrast is so marked that it recalls the days when the safety bicycle obscured the old high wheel over night. Viewed from the snug, low-lung comfort of the Chrysler, others look awkwardly high and unwieldy. Not only do they appear unnecessarily high, but unnecessarily heavy and cumbersome. The delight which this contrast arouses is stimulated when the Chrysler gets under way. It has a flashing acceleration which is literally a new experience. Just as it is smartly unusual in appearance and conservation of space and height and weight, so it is strikingly unusual in performance. It romps away from its un-wieldier brethren with ease, on level, or grade, or hill—negotiating traffic with an alertness that must arouse chagrin in those driving heavier and more sluggish cars. It rides as no car even of its own high-quality type ever rode before. It does all of the things it is called upon to do as no other car has ever done them before. The Chrysler has blazed a new way and ushered in a new day in motoring—that is why the whole country is Chrysler-wild today.

The Paramount

"TRAFFIC IN HEARTS"—On view today and tomorrow at the Paramount, presents Robert Fraser and Mildred Harris in the leading roles. Little more than a year ago, Second Avenue, between First and Twenty-first Streets was a mass of old buildings. Then, a change so complete as almost to revive an Aladdin with a wonderful lamp. Almost overnight a colony of apartment house dwellings for the poor sprung up.

This group of apartment houses is unique in diverse ways—one in particular, is so marked a contrast when other apartment dwellings are considered, that it is worthy of more than passing attention. Babies are welcomed there.

To the man or woman without children this may mean little, but to the doing parents of young New Yorkers it speaks a volume. Nobody who has gone on a hunt for apartments and been refused them time and again for the reason that there are children in the family can fail to appreciate this departure.

Fathers and mothers have stayed awake many a night wondering what to do about their housing problem. It has seemed that only the undesirable places were willing to accept as tenants families with young children at hand that would live and let live. This is the background of this great story which is close to the hearts of everyone.

Friday and Saturday, Franklyn Farnum will be shown in "Border Intrigue."

The Soisson

"THE SEA HAWK"—Rafael Sabatini's love story of a great pirate chieftain, is attracting record breaking crowds at the Soisson. The picture opened on Monday for a four day performance, the closing on on Thursday night.

Resplendent in rich dramatic value and requiring many and massive backgrounds for its many big sequences "The Sea Hawk," as transferred to the screen by Mr. Lloyd, is not only one of the outstanding cinema achievements of the past year but one of the singular triumphs of screen history.

The story begins in England, where Master Peter Godolphin is murdered shortly after his sister Rosamund and Sir Oliver Trussilian announce their coming marriage. Oliver is accused of the murder because a trail of blood leads from the dead man's body to the doorstep of Penarrow Hall, Oliver's home. When Oliver submits to an examination and proves his innocence to the justice, London, his brother, fearing that he might be accused of the murder, has Oliver kidnapped and taken aboard a ship about to sail for Algiers, thus making it seem positive that Oliver had fled from punishment for his guilt.

Milton Sills appears in the stellar role.

Friday and Saturday Larry Semon will be seen in his first big feature comedy, "The Girl in the Limousine."

The Orpheum

"TRIUMPH"—The feature picture today is Paramount production with Leatrice Joy and Rod La Rocque in the leading roles.

Here is the typical DeMille production, with its gorgeous settings, luxurious backgrounds, beautiful women, flashing gowns and an array of featured players that looks more like a copy of the roster of the Paramount studios than a cast.

La Rocque gets a great acting chance in this picture as a man who has never had to work and doesn't, only to find himself stripped of the money and power he was accustomed to as heir to the Garnet Can Works.

Miss Joy is a forewoman in the factory determined to get ahead by her own efforts and not because of any man she might marry. Victor Varconi is La Rocque's rival for the girl's hand. Never having had money, he has strange ideas of his powers which permit a series of gorgeous and spectacular scenes when circumstances reverse the positions of La Rocque and himself.

"There's a remarkable climax—twist that will keep the audience guessing."

"Tom Mix will be seen in 'The Trouble Shooter' on Thursday, Friday and Saturday."

The Arcade

Lewis Brothers Palm Garden Beauties are scoring quite a hit at the Arcade Theatre this week. The initial offering in which Irish Billy Lewis is at his best as the old rich Uncle pleased the audiences both Monday and Tuesday. The change of program offered today is "The Janitor," a laughable comedy in two scenes, which sets forth in many ludicrous episodes the troubles of the Janitor. In addition to Mr. Lewis will be seen a number of other very clever people including Chick Ward, a very clever dancer, Eddie Kinlock, who plays a violin well and a saxophone much better. Ray McClelland, who renders several ballads to a good hand, also Art Lewis, the dancing straight man. The usual novel picture program will also be shown.

Fans Want High School to Upset the Dope and Defeat "Little" Washington Team

It is "Only 'Little' Washington," Says One Man, a Real Fan.

NEW ENTHUSIASM SEEN

Connellsville High School is going to win this game Saturday, said one fan yesterday, "because after all, it is only 'Little' Washington the team is playing." When the "Little Cokers" meet "Little Washington," the fun is going to fly.

At last Connellsvillians are rallying to the support of its representative football club and not only are the school students interested but the infectious enthusiasm is spreading elsewhere. Rotary boys and members of the Elks Club have jumped into the thing with all their influence and they invite every red-blooded man or woman, who likes sport for the good there is in it, to keep Connellsville on the map by encouraging its game little band of football warriors to "do their darndest."

The First National Bank has taken one step towards coaxing greater effort from the team. It has offered prizes for touchdowns made by the Orange and Black contingent against Washington. The committee made up of Rotary boys and Elks members has contributed to a fund from which awards will be paid those drawing the best cartoon or getting up the best slogan in connection with the game.

On Saturday afternoon the spirit which is being worked up this week will burst forth into a flood of moral support that will give the Coker boys a real encouragement against the foe. In years gone by Connellsville always contended on even terms with Washington. This year the odds are not considered an equal of Jeannette. If Connellsville plays the fighting, clawing defensive game against the visitors Saturday that was put up against the Westmoreland county team, coupled with the offense which has been developed since, then a real battle may look ahead.

"Connellsville can win that game," said one man, "I refuse to be beaten before the last whistle blows. Those boys must understand that. Football can't be doped and this may just be the time when the dope will be upset."

B. & O. Shops Too Fast for Liederkrantz

The Liederkrantz bowlers were mowed by the Baltimore & Ohio shops last evening on the Elks alleys in a City League combat. After dropping the first game, the railroaders came "in" and ran up a decisive margin. The final score was 1,385 to 1,695. Neither of the shops had high score for three games with 400, while Flannery with a score of 371 had high score for one game.

DUNBAR TWP. WILL FIND WORTHY FOE IN E. HUNTINGDON

Dunbar Township High will find a worthy foe in East Huntingdon grid team when it competes with that eleven at that place Saturday. East Huntingdon has been tearing up things of late and is determined to have nothing less than a victory.

The Red and Black contingent will go out to break the losing jinx that has been keeping pace with the team this year. The team has played good football, going forward to defeat by the breaks of the game. A stronger offensive must be developed. Until it is producing the attacking punch, there will be little hopes of scoring touchdowns. Although the team has showed flashes of offensive work, the general run has been very weak. Games are won by touchdowns and to date, the Dunbarites have scored but two, in five games.

The grid mentor is keeping the team in fit condition, being on the lookout for any let-up in the still training schedule. A good battle is expected to be staged when the two teams meet Saturday.

WHITE MAN

By
George Agnew Chamberlain

Author of
"Honey," "Through Stained Glass," "John Boyard," etc.

Copyright, 1935, The Bobbs-Merrill Company

When she awoke, hours later, the room was heavy with the sickly smell of lanterns burned the low, but to make up for that the rain just ceased and sunlight poured in through the open door. Maungo was sitting as he had sat, reading as he had been reading. The flow of his voice was exactly the same as though he himself had been caught in a current that would not let him stop.

Andrea was a curious thing. She saw instinctively the workings of his mind. He wished her to awake without awaking—to come to the new day with the selfsame smile in her heart that had been there when she slept. He called upon her to play the game through and she decided to do it. She stretched her bare arms, yawned, rubbed her eyes with doubled fists, laughed and then threw out both hands to him.

"Take me back," she said. The book fell from his hands. He turned and stared at her with the hungry eyes of a man who sees for the first time one of the rarest of God's creatures—namely, a woman whose youth stands by her in the disheveled morning, dedes the ugly finger of green slumber and proclaims her lovely beyond the limits set by the writhing seams of coarser and less blessed fabric. The moment his gaze wavered as though before too strong a light, then it steadied and his face grew stern. He arose.

"Come on," he said.

She threw her arms about his neck; he picked her up, swung and all, and passed solemnly the length of the covered way. He could feel her face pressed hard against his shoulder and her loosened hair was like a cloud beneath his chin. Her arms clung to him tightly, her body trembled, her was twinkled and her lips murmured audibly, "Remember, Andrea Peller, you're just a kiddle."

Remember, Andrea Peller, You're Just a Kiddle.

He dropped her on her cot with a hand that surprised the six straddling legs of that sturdy campaigner into stringy protest and incidentally startled one young lady.

"There you are, you little devil," he growled and strode from the room with the satisfied air of a dog who has just carried home eight pounds of prize roast lamb.

Andrea watched him go, then she arose, took the cord from her bathrobe and advanced upon the door to the covered way. She closed it, let down the bar and with the cord bound it in place. She tied knot after hard knot, and as she drew each one of them tight she said, "Just to give you time to think twice, Andrea Peller."

CHAPTER IX.

Scarcely had she finished when a sudden languor seized her. She knew that she ought to bathe and dress quickly, for Maungo would be keen for his breakfast after his "white" night. Why did all Latin call a sleepless night "white," anyway? Her brows puckered over that problem and it seemed as though she must puzzle it out before she did anything else. She crept into her cot to attend to it. A cold wave swept over her body and left it frozen; a pain stabbed into her side.

The pain was like a knife, red-hot and terrible. In an instant her tongue was parched, her eyes were weeping. So suddenly had sickness come upon her that even in the face of its clamorous presence, her mind betrayed it incredulously. Surely it would pass swiftly as it had come. She clenched her teeth and waited. There was a look in her face as though she listened.

The pain ceased. When it came back again it was no longer a knife but the raving fangs of a wolf tearing their way toward the vitals of her body. She tried to clench her teeth, to keep silence until the spasms passed but she could not hold out. "White Man!" she moaned and then, realizing that she must make him hear now or never, she gathered all her strength and screamed.

She heard quick steps coming from the crash, a thundering on her door and then his voice, "Am I to come in?" She tried to cry out again and could not; tears poured down her cheeks. But the white man did not wait; another moment and he was standing over her twisted body. She looked up. The stricken look in her frightened eyes was as nothing; to the sudden terror that had come into his own. He sank to his knees. "You are ill!" he breathed.

He passed his cool hand across her forehead, held his fingers to the pulse in her throat, grasped her wrists and found them burning—all burning. "Last night," he said, "when you were in here, you didn't use your curtain? You left the light on?"

She did not answer beyond a stare from glassy eyes. Her face was white, her lips a straight purple line. Her shoulders were rigid, but beneath them her body was twisting and turning as though in a desperate effort to tear itself away from the sentient heat of pain.

"Is it as bad as that?" said Maungo. Into his voice had already come the calm of a man accustomed to the face of danger. "I'm going to leave you for a moment," he continued. "When I come I'll take the pain away."

He stepped toward the barred door and tried to open it. He intent was he on getting to his room that he glanced at the cord and saw only that it was hindering him. He drew out his knife, cut the bar free and hurried on. The three minutes he was gone seemed an eternity to Andrea. When he came back he carried in one hand a medicine case and in the other a hypodermic syringe already filled. He set the case down carefully, grasped and bared Andrea's forearm, rubbed it with alcohol and quickly gave her an injection. "Skip the next five minutes," he said. "Fasten your mind to five minutes from now." She only moaned to show that she heard him.

But even before the five minutes were up she could feel peace coming to her body slowly and from far away, as though it feared to pounce upon her suddenly. When it settled upon her it brought with it a drowsy and ineffable relief. Her eyes could move once more in their sockets. They followed the white man as he made his rapid preparation for a long sleep. She heard him call Bathshab and issue a string of orders; then he brought a chair close to the cot and sat down.

"Andrea," he said quietly, "we're up against it, you and I. I can't say just what it is. It may be pneumonia, you may have been sickening for appendicitis, but I'm almost afraid it isn't either of those. If it's fever, it's peculiar." Her eyes stared at him, hung upon his face.

He took one of her hands in his. "I'm breaking all the rules by frightening you," he went on, "and I do it purposely. I do it because I've learned that you and I are brothers in one thing. We're fighters. All the blood in our veins flows one way—up hill to battle. We don't know when to quit. No d— fever can show us where to get off. It's going to be shoulder to shoulder, and if you go back on me I'll go back on God, for I trust you as I've never trusted any living thing."

Her hands twisted in his and gripped his fingers. "You're great, White Man," she said softly. "You're like that—a fighter—and it's sweet of you to ring me in. No d— fever can show you—no d—." She crumpled up and cried.

"Good for you," said Maungo promptly. "Fry now. It can't do you a bit of harm and it will probably put you to sleep. But when you wake, if you want to cry then, please come up crying mad and ready to set your teeth in the throat of pain. For he'll have you, Kiddle, he'll have you in a half-Nelson and I can't always stick him with the needle."

It was even as he said. All day and all night the battle raged, and there were moments when Andrea forgot that she was a fighter, begged with gasping, heartrending moans for opium and relief, and when he refused, her tongue turned bitter, sharp as a serpent's tooth. Each word she said was chosen to wound. Harshly the most fair-minded of women, she became unjust, ungenerous and cruel as dead love.

It was giving her the treatment for pernicious malaria. Together with every other white man who has served apprenticeship to Africa he had an extraordinary store of rough and ready medical knowledge. To such men only six drugs are essential, all others being classed as furbelows of the pampered sick room, and with these they work as with elemental. Kill or cure is their motto, the saving idea being that if the patient can't stand punishment, he would go under in any case.

On those rare occasions when Andrea's spasms conquered his reluctance to use the needle he would watch her until the opiate stilled her and then fall into his chair and to sleep. "I am here," he would say even as his lids closed. "Never forget, I'm here for you. Though me or speak to me and I'll awake." It was true. In spite of his long vigil he kept deep slumber at a distance by an effort of the will like a man who sets a clock in his mind and trusts to his subconscious self to call him at the hour marked.

The afternoon of the second day found Andrea unusually subdued and still, but he was not deceived. He looked at her eyes and saw that their pupils still appeared convex and glassy, like the eyes of a fish. They stared at him with an immeasurable gravity. When her dry lips parted, he shrank even before she spoke.
